

Reference Letter – Giovanni Minuto

To whom it may concern,

I am pleased to provide this reference letter for Giovanni Minuto, who worked at Pasqal as a Quantum Algorithm Developer. I supervised him on a year-long project focused on applying Quantum Neural Networks to industry-relevant problems. During his time with us, he made significant contributions to our efforts, demonstrating strong technical skills, problem-solving abilities, and a collaborative mindset.

Giovanni's main responsibilities included:

- Providing consultancy for the multinational conglomerate LG Electronics on an industry-relevant project, applying advanced techniques such as Physics-Informed Neural Networks (PINNs) and Quantum Neural Networks to address a complex multi-physics problem.
- Building, training, and evaluating Machine Learning and Quantum Machine Learning models for expressivity, robustness, and scalability.
- Leading a dedicated project vertical from concept to deployment, coordinating with cross-functional teams in an Agile/Scrum environment.
- Architecting, developing, and maintaining open-source and internal Quantum and Machine Learning libraries, enabling scalable simulations and integration for research and industry applications.

Throughout his work, Giovanni consistently delivered high-quality, production-ready code, paid great attention to detail, and demonstrated the ability to quickly master complex technical challenges. His strong expertise in Python and related ML frameworks, combined with his research background in quantum algorithms, allowed him to work with between cutting-edge research and industrially-grade applications.

Beyond his technical skills, Giovanni proved to be a true team player—always willing to share his knowledge, support colleagues, and contribute positively to the collaborative spirit of the group.

I have no doubt that Giovanni will excel in whichever path he decides to follow, and I recommend him wholeheartedly. Please feel free to reach out to me directly if you would like any additional information.

Sincerely,
